America's Civil War: The Battle of Wilson's Creek Bill Markley

The American Civil War battle of Wilson's Creek was fought on August 10, 1861 just three weeks after the Confederate victory of Bull Run in Virginia. The battle of Wilson's Creek, 12 miles south of Springfield, Missouri, was the first major engagement of the war west of the Mississippi River. The Confederate forces greatly outnumbering their Union counterparts won the battle after an intense day of fighting. The Confederates held the field at the end of the fight and soon marched on Springfield opening Confederate control of western Missouri. This is a general overview of the battle.
